

Sharing your work

How to do it

Understanding article versions*

* As defined by the National Information Standards Organization

Tip: When you receive the acceptance email from the Editorial Office, make sure you keep this AM version of your paper for future use.

My article has just been published in a Taylor & Francis journal and I want to:

Post my article on my personal website

Link to the VoR using your DOI

Post your AOM using this text
Post your AM using this text

Present my article at a meeting or conference

Print the PDF of your VoR from My Authored Works to distribute among attendees.

Share my article for teaching purposes

Share your VoR using your 50 free eprints link

Print the PDF of your VoR from My Authored Works

Link to the VoR using your DOI

Share your AM or AOM using this text

How to link your AOM/AM to your VoR

Add a link from your posted AOM or AM to the published article on Taylor & Francis Online like this:

"This is an [Accepted Manuscript / Original Manuscript] of an article published by Taylor & Francis in [JOURNAL TITLE] on [date of publication], available at [http://www.tandfonline.com/\[Article DOI\]](http://www.tandfonline.com/[Article DOI])."

Why link to the VoR?

Using a DOI to link to the VoR on Taylor & Francis Online means that downloads, Altmetric data, and citations can be tracked and collated – data you can use to assess the impact of your work.

Share my article with my research group

Share your VoR using your 50 free eprints link

Link to the VoR using your DOI

Share your AOM or AM using this text

Post about my article on social media (Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn, Google+ groups)

Share your VoR using your 50 free eprints link

Link to the VoR using your DOI

Link to your AOM or AM using this text

Post my article to an institutional or subject repository

You can post your AM at any time, though we ask that you make a 'closed' deposit if the journal has an embargo period. At the end of the embargo period

post your AM using this text

(check the embargo period on all journals here),

Post my article on scholarly collaboration networks who have signed the STM voluntary principles on article sharing

Link to the VoR using your DOI

Post your AOM using a version of this text

At the end of the embargo period (check the embargo period on all journals here),

post your AM using this text

Tip: To share on SCNs who have not signed the STM voluntary principles please first contact Taylor & Francis for agreement (full list of endorsing organizations).

Tip: Did you publish your work Gold Open Access? You can share this at any time, in any way (check the VoR to see which Creative Commons license you published under, and find out more about how others can re-use your work here).

Posting your work to your institutional repository

Q. What's a 'closed deposit'?

A. You post your AM to your institutional repository so that it is freely available for anyone within your institutional network to access. You (or repository staff) can make this an open deposit after the relevant embargo period has passed. AMs can be posted at any point to repositories as closed deposits.

Q. What's an 'open deposit'?

A. You post your AM to your institutional repository so that it is freely available for anyone to access. All authors are required to respect the relevant embargo periods before making AMs available as an open deposit (check the embargo period on all journals here).